Dead Deer Taken Away by Italians-Hide Surrendered.

Last week word reached Deputy Game Warden Asa M. Miller that a dead deer was lying in a lot near Boarahville. The warden went to the Bozzahville. The warden went to the place Sunday, but could not find the animal, although there were tracks in the snow, indicating that there had been a deer there, but had been taken away. Following the prints in the snow, he came to the house of an Italian, who admitted having found the deer and skinning the animal. He had cut up the carcass. The game warden demanded the hide of the animal. At first the Italian refused to surrender it, but when the officer threatened to have the Italian accompany him the hide was given up. No marks or holes were found to show that the animal had been shot. It weighed about two hundred pounds.

Afire—Personals.

Friday night Mr. Kellogg had a hard time trying to get home from Moosup with his daughter, who is teacher in Central Village, and his son from the Academy in Norwich. They got stuck near Fair View farm. Help had to be called to shovel them out. The team was put into the barn there, the daughter spent the night at George Gallup's and Mr. Kellogg and son wallowed homo through the snow with great difficulty. The next day, although the storm had ceased, the wind continued to blow a gule all day, so that no attempt was made to clear the roads, and there was no passing whatever. Sunday was calm and the men spent the day in energetically shoveling out, and there were no services in church.

The R. F. D. carrier, Henry Wilson, started out Saturday morning and returned to Moosup on Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock.
